

Hello My Little Brownies!

How are you? What have you been up to this week? I hope you have spent some time baking, building and drawing lots of wonderful things.

Hopefully you all received my email last week and are continuing with the various home learning activities and are keeping fit. Currently, I love...love...LOVE the Joe Wick's 9am workout videos and the Oti Mabuse dance videos uploaded at 11am on YouTube. I may audition to be Beyoncé's backing dancer as my dancing skills have improved significantly- you would be very impressed! Have you and your family been taking part each morning? What exercise are you doing each day?

During week 2, I started a puzzle and I underestimated how hard it would be to complete! I have eaten a few chocolate muffins to keep me motivated. Nonetheless, I will keep you posted on my very slow progress- finger crossed the puzzle fairies complete it for me! This week I also went into school and got to spend time with children from all different year groups- that was fun. However, it was a strange feeling not seeing your smiley faces.

Next week, you will receive a list of exciting Easter activities (on the home learning page) to complete during the Easter holiday. Please take lots of photos to record what you did and send them in, as this will brighten my day!

Enjoy the rest of your week! Keep smiling and working hard.

Sending lots of air hugs,
Love Miss Brown :)

P.S.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Each week I will give you a brain teaser or a thought provoking question. I wonder if you can solve this problem?

There was a traffic congestion at an intersection. However, one car needs to move, so the others can get on with their travels. Only a few people find the answer right away.

Can you figure out which car needs to move first?

WHICH OF THE CARS MUST MOVE?

Good Luck!!
